PRICE TWO CENTS

Women Graduates Offered Travelling Award By Society

Canadian Federation of University Women Donors of Scholarship

AWARD WORTH $1,250

Successful Candidate to Pursue Her Study in Research Work

A travelling scholarship of $1,250 is to be offered by the Canadian Federation of University Women, according to information recently received. This will be open to any women holding a degree from a Canadian University. Preference, however, will be given to those candidates who have completed at least one or two years of graduate study and have definite plans of advanced work or of research in view. The award is based on evidence of character and ability of the candidate and promise of success in the subject to which she is devoting herself.

Conditions Needed

1. Application is to be made by letter to the Convener of the Scholarship Committee, Miss Margaret Cameron, University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, Sask., not later than February 1st.

2. The letter of application should contain an account of the applicant's educational training and a statement in full of the plan of study or research she intends to pursue. This information should be accompanied by:

(a) A written statement from the President of the college or university awarding the degrees held by the applicant to the effect that her application is a suitable candidate is approved.

(b) Testimonials as to her health, character, ability and scholarship. All testimonials and references should be in writing. The committee will assume no responsibility for making enquiry beyond the papers submitted. All testimonials must come directly to the Convener from the writers, not later than February 1st.

(c) Theses, papers or reports of investigations published or unpublished.

3. All papers submitted by the applicant will be returned if postage is sent for that purpose. Confidential letters will be kept.

4. The choice of the University at which the successful candidate shall pursue her study or research work is left to the Committee of Selection in consultation with the candidate.

Two Instalments

5. The scholarship is payable in two equal instalments on July 1st, and Jan. 1st by the Treasurer of the Federation, provided the successful applicant sends her address for those dates.

6. At the end of her tenure, the candidate shall send a report of her work, together with a statement of its worth from the professor or other authority conversant with her research to the Convener or the Scholarship Committee.

Pacifists At McGill Hold First Meeting

Gathering in Strathcona Hall
Next Monday Night

Next Monday night the McGill League Against War and Fascism will make its appearance on the campus when a meeting for the purpose of organizing the society will be held in Strathcona Hall. Several professors have signified their intention of attending and helping in the organization of this new group.

Organizations of this sort have already been formed on many Canadian and American campuses. The University of Toronto had such a group last year which printed a publication of its own. Last summer a convention of the American societies was held at Columbia University.

It is expected that Stanley Ryerson will speak at the meeting Monday night. Ryerson is a graduate of Toronto University who spent two years in France on a scholarship studying languages. He was active in the French League Against War and Fascism.

Correction

The German Department wishes to correct an error which appeared in yesterday's Daily, in the announcement of the cast of the coming comedy, "Die Deutschen Kleinstädter." This announcement attributed the "eine Magd" to Margaret McDermott, in mistake for Frances McDermott. The Department wishes to point out that it was entirely responsible for the error and to draw attention to this correction.

Strange Sounds Result From Workshop Activity

THE first group of Workshop Plays are to be presented next Wednesday evening at 8.15 in the Y.M.C.A., Drummond Street.

The cast will include Jean Dupuis, whose performance as the butler in "Rope" will be remembered as a finished piece of acting. Lorraine Tasker, who will be seen in a prominent role, which she plays to perfection, as well as much new talent.

Anyone who has been in the Union this last week will have heard, if their ears are sharp, above the strains of the McGill Band sounds of sawing, hammering, or pounding going on in the lumber room.

The occasional chess-player in the reading room may have been momentarily startled to observe strange lengths of lumber being carried aloft, but that is nothing in comparison with the strange shapes that are soon to emerge—stalls, fire-places and ten foot doors are knocked together over night, and with judicious lighting will so change the familiar aspect of the grey curtains that former Workshop patrons will pause to wonder whether they have come to the right place. Remember! Wednesday evening next, in the

English Literature Club Hears Talk On Virginia Wolfe

A MEETING of the English Literature Society will take place tomorrow afternoon in Room 13 of the Arts Building. Mrs. Walter Vaughan, M.A., Warden of the Royal Victoria College, will be the speaker. Her subject will be "Virginia Wolfe," one of the best-known writers of today.

Miss Wolfe's novels are known for the charm and the delicate appeal with which they are expressed. "Mrs. Halliday" and "The Waves" are widely read; the methods following those of Joyce are yet different and distinctive. Her most recent production was "Flush," a biography of Elizabeth Barrett Browning's spaniel.

The subject is believed to be of great interest to all and those interested are urged to attend. The membership list will be kept open until the conclusion of the meeting after which new members will be accepted.

Braisted To Speak At Divinity Service

Sunday Feature Will Commemorate Ending of War

Sunday commemorates the ending of the great war. It is fitting that on that day there should be a service of commemoration and of prayer for peace, that such a tragedy might not occur again. With this in mind, we invite all who wish to attend the service in Divinity Hall Sunday evening at 7.30. The speaker will be William Braisted, president of the Student Christian Movement of McGill, also editor of the Medical Undergrad paper. He is a graduate of Brown University, and has had considerable experience in Student work in New England, in the middle western states, and on the Pacific coast. As a speaker he has a fine command of language, and is most persuasive giving a sense of strong conviction to those who hear him.

Open house will also be held after the service. It will be an informal meeting at which there will be an excellent opportunity for people to become better acquainted. No better opportunity is afforded for students and their friends to become better acquainted, college friendships are lasting, they are invaluable through life. To meet people is desirable for all of us. It may create the desire to know them better, to know many people and have many contacts makes for a richer life. Therefore, come to Open House, and amid song and mirth enjoy an evening.

German Club Holds Informal After Play

THE "Germania" plans to hold an informal dance following the performance of the German Department play, "Die Deutschen Kleinstädter," on Thursday evening, November 15th, at the Samovar Restaurant. Tickets will be only fifty cents each, one dollar a couple. The upper room of the Samovar has been reserved for the occasion, refreshments will be served and an excellent floor show will be provided.

The executive wishes to point out that this affair will be open to all and that no knowledge of German is necessary.

Sell Martlets For Game On Saturday

AT the McGill-Toronto game on Saturday it will be considered "just the thing" for all McGill supporters to wear the Martlet, which will be sold in the morning on the campus, and in the afternoon outside the Stadium gates.

Since the Martlets, with red bows tied around the necks, are made of pipe cleaners very cunningly twisted together, they not only form engaging emblems, but they are of real practical value.

The proceeds of the sale will go to keep the Student Christian Movement in its programme. There is an urgent appeal for volunteers, both men and women, to sell these Martlets. All those who are interested in making or selling Martlets are asked to see Ethel Liddy in Strathcona Hall any time this afternoon.

Drummond Street Y.M.C.A. Admission FREE.

Graduates Attention

On Page 4 of today's Daily will be found a replica of the Biography Form which all graduating students are asked to fill out. The forms may be obtained from any of the superintendents of the McGill buildings. The completed forms should be returned to the superintendent or to any member of the Annual staff.

Scott Deals With Control By State Of Trade Unions

Programme Will Be Proposed
For Coming Year

THE Labour Club will hold its second meeting of the year on Friday night, at 8.15, in the Strathcona Hall when Professor Scott of the Faculty of Law will give an address on "Government Regulation of Collective Bargaining." Depressed conditions, the collapse of the price of primary products and unemployment have forced upon Canadians a consideration of the fundamental basis of capitalist economy. The N.R.A. in the United States has definitely brought such issues into the foreground. That the trend in Canada is in the same direction is evidenced by such legislation as the "Marketing Act" which was passed at the last session of Parliament. Professor Scott will discuss the principles involved in Government regulation, the need of such regulation and the methods by which it should be brought about.

The executive of the Club will propose a definite program for the coming year. It is hoped to enlist the interest of undergraduates not only in the wider aspects of Socialism but in specific social problems in the Canadian scene. With this end in view, a series of study projects will be organized and scholars particularly qualified will undertake to lead the discussions. For instance, a study project will be launched centred around the problem of Agriculture in which such aspects as "Planned Settlement," "Rural Credit," "Back-to-the-land Agriculture" will be discussed. Another series will deal with the problem of unemployment and will be initiated by a discussion on the question of the "Unemployed Woman." Other projects, such as "Economic Nationalism," "Banking," "War and Fascism" are under consideration. The question of the affiliation of the Labour Club with outside organizations, such as the "Student League for Industrial Democracy," will be decided at this meeting. Certain remaining officers of the Executive will be elected.

Those who have not yet joined the club are particularly invited to attend—the meeting is not confined to members.

Noad Speaks Tonight

Professor Algy S. Noad of the Department of English will deliver the second of a series of lectures on Modern Literature tonight at the Y.M.H.A. this evening, under the auspices of the Extra-Mural Department. Tonight his address will concern the work and influence of Marcel Proust. The lecture will commence at 8:30 p.m.

Managerial Board System Outlined By Student President

System Based on Similar Ones at Other Universities

LORNE GALES SPEAKS

Handbook is Now Being Prepared by Athletic Officers

A new sports managerial system was outlined by Lorne Gales at a meeting of the Union Managerial Board held in the Grill Room yesterday afternoon. The system will consist of committees, assistant managers, and managers, all controlled by a managerial board.

The system is based on smaller ones at Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Cornell. It was studied last year by a commission of seven senior managers at McGill and this will be the first year that it has been in force at this university.

A handbook is being prepared by the Athletic Office and it will be distributed to all competitors. The course consists of three parts: (1) Classes in instruction in managing, (2) Office work, and (3) practical work under various senior managers. The system is divided into two sections: Fall sports and winter sports. Managers will have their choice of either fall or winter sports. Competitors now being enrolled will be used in connection with winter sports.

Other speakers at the meeting included Major D. S. Forbes, who spoke briefly of the finances of the McGill Athletic Board, John H. Macdonald, who gave a talk on sportsmanship among the managers, and W. P. Sprenger, who went into the details of the work.

Stamps Of Empire Feature At Meeting

Trading Stamps and Air
Covers Added Attraction

THE McGill Stamp Club will feature a special "British Colonial" meeting tonight in the Union Music Room. As many stamp collectors specialize in the stamps of the British Empire, it is expected that there will be a large turnout.

Among the many things to be discussed in connection with the new issues in British Stamps will be the news about the Silver Jubilee stamps, the new stamps of Great Britain and the latest issues of Ascension, North Borneo and Cayman Islands. All the members who are planning to attend are asked to bring their collections and their duplicates.

The system of trading at tonight's meeting will be by Scott's 1934 and Gibbons 1934 catalogues. Any 1935 catalogues will be welcome, if they are brought down. For the information of collectors of air-mail covers and stamps, there is quite a demand for all late issues and covers. Important announcements will also be made with regard to an exhibition and an invitation from the St. Lawrence Stamp Club tendered by Prof. French.

Faculty of Arts and Science

No students will be permitted to write examinations in subjects in which they have not duly registered. Any students who made changes in their courses without notifying the Dean's and Registrar's Offices should attend to the matter at once.

(Signed) W. D. Woodhead,
Acting Dean.

Silver Issue Topic At Economy Society

THE interest of Canada in the recent silver issues will be discussed next Thursday evening at the second meeting of the Political Club, when Leo Simkover, Arts '35, and Arthur D. Styles, Graduate student, deliver papers on "Canada's Interest In The Silver Question." Both students are honouring in Economics and Political Science.

President Roosevelt's recent nationalization of silver and his statement that henceforth silver will form 25% of the country's monetary base has revived the issue of bimetallism. Canada being one of the largest silver-producing countries in the world, naturally has a vital interest in the question. Moreover there has been much talk of raising the value of silver so as to increase the purchasing power of countries still on the silver standard such as China.

As usual refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the meeting, and discussion will follow.

Tags Sold Today In Final Appeal For Contributions

TODAY the Women's Union of McGill University is making an effort to bring the Federated Charities drive up to last year's Standard by holding a tag day. Collections this year are $124 behind last year, only 69% of the objective having been reached.

It is felt that by having a tag day many people will be reached who previously felt they were unable to give. It is hoped that those who have already given will not feel they have done enough, but will give a little bit more; this little bit will be the amount that will make the drive a success.

The tag day is not an innovation at McGill, but it is felt that this is one of the best means of making up as much as possible at the last minute. The tagging will be done by students of the Royal Victoria College.

Work On Shavian Play Continues Well On Way

Players' Club Cast Rehearse
Every Day For "The Devil's Disciple"

WORK on Bernard Shaw's satire "The Devil's Disciple" the Players' Club's first major production, is well under way, with the cast rehearsing every day, and the Production Committee working overtime so as to be ready for the opening night at Moyse Hall, Wednesday night, December 14. Bernard Shaw's brilliant satire has proved to be a favourite with theatre audiences of today. The play abounds in humour, satire, brilliant dialogue and dramatic incidents.

Play Adapted to Students
The Players' Club executive claims that the play is well adapted to the talents of the collegiate cast, and are certain that it will be enthusiastically received by the public, and especially by the students.

The cast includes:
Dick Dudgeon G. Bourne
Mrs. Dudgeon K. Dickinson
Judith M. Atkinson
Swindon C. Cam
Christy J. Jackson
Hawkins B. Schechter
Aunts C. Bowman, A. Winslow-
Sprague
Crowd H. Burrows, L. Strachan, J. Mussel, E. Cox.

The five sets for the play, designed by Max Roth, are on a very elaborate scale, and the efficient scenery crew under the capable supervision of Ward O'Connor are hard at work, and excellent results have been accomplished up to date, and it is expected that all sets will be completed at least a week before the show.

The Ticket Manager, James Moore, expects to have all tickets out a week from Friday.

Christ's Influence Depicted At Meeting

"Christ overcomes fear," said Mr. C. Stacey Woods, B.A. Th. B., general secretary of the Interspersal Christian Fellowship at yesterday's series of meetings of the fellowship, being held this week in Divinity Hall at 5 p.m.

We may be afraid of life, afraid of sorrow, afraid of God, afraid of our own personality. Life's responsibilities and temptations may seem too great for us unless we trust in Christ who has trod the path before us.

Death can hold no fear for those who trust in Christ for he died and triumphed over death. The fact of the Resurrection—Christ victorious over death—banishes fear of dying for those committed to follow Jesus Christ.

On Thursday at 5 p.m. in Divinity Hall, Mr. Bob Lennox, graduate student, will take as his topic "The Experience of Experiment." Miss Cathie Nicoll, Women's General Secretary of the I.U.C.F., will give a short talk. All students will be made welcome.

Exhibit In Library

Rumanian books and handicrafts are now exhibited in the McGill University Library. The exhibition will continue till November 30th. The public is admitted free of charge.

Books, magazines, and photographs depicting life in Rumania may be seen. The exhibit includes many fine examples of peasant work, such as pottery, knitted goods, and textiles. An outstanding feature is the collection of colour plates of Rumanian rugs and carpets which were exhibited in the Musée des Arts Decoratifs, Paris, in 1927, by the director of the Museum of natural Art, Bucharest.

Budding Lawyers Will Hold Banquet At Queen's Hotel

LAW Freshmen tonight entertain their Seniors in the Faculty at the annual Law Banquet in the Queen's Hotel, freed of any thought of lectures on the morrow by the ancient statute of the Law Faculty which decrees that they be disregarded en masse on this occasion. A number of faculty members are expected, among them Justice Fabre Surveyer, Dean Corbett, O. Tyndale, K.C., Professors Lemesurier and Scott, and Warwick Chipman, K.C., George Owen, President of the Freshmen year, will preside at the head table, where the faculty members will be seated.

The program will consist of a toast to the faculty, another to the Freshmen to which they all reply, songs and a skit produced by the Freshmen. The first year men are said to have composed a song especially for this event. This banquet, it is announced, will be strictly informal.

Natural Beauty Of Canada Impresses Argentinian Scholar

Adolfo Alsina is Holder of Research Scholarship
To McGill

ADMIRE INITIATIVE

Writes Article in Buenos Aires Paper; Translated
From Spanish

A description of Canada, the land and its people, form the contents of a paper appearing in the newspaper, "La Razón" of Buenos Aires recently. This article is of interest to McGill students inasmuch as it was written by Mr. Adolfo Alsina, engineer, Gold Medalist of the University of Buenos Aires and winner of a research scholarship to McGill, made possible by the Sun Life and the Royal Bank. The paper is translated from the Spanish. (Ed. Note).

Following are outstanding excerpts from the paper:

Visit Enchanting

"A visit to Canada is, for the Latin-American, a succession of enchanting impressions and pleasant surprises. It is a most interesting country, from many different points of view, and leaves the visitor obsessed with the desire to return, sooner or later.

"We will only mention the natural and the fascination of the countryside varied to infinity across its immense territory. Whomsoever chance has favoured with one of those serene winter nights in the Laurentians when the moon shines in the harbours and an uncanny silence descends upon the snow clad mountains and forests, has lived moments never to be forgotten.

Intelligent Cooperation

"It is so young, this country of ten million inhabitants, yet it is an instance of what a community, though numerically small, can achieve along the road of progress, when all individual efforts are joined in intelligent and tenacious co-operation.

"The vigorous initiative of the Canadian has everywhere opened destinies to the development of industry and commerce, of communications, culture and of the general welfare of the community.

"The character traits belonging to the Anglo-Saxon have been happily complemented by the Latin heritage of the French colonist. This is a great sight to behold, this pageant of two races, differing so widely, who after having fought for the possession of the soil in pitched battles, have made peace, sealing their friendship in the work of civilization and progress. The blending is, perhaps, not yet perfect; the by-gone contention has left rivalries and grudges; yet it is so undeniable that the French-Canadian though keeping his language and his religion has shown a profound ability for adaptation in these circumstances.

Great Railway Systems

"The simple fact that Canada has increased her cereal production sevenfold within twenty years will give an idea of her wonderful development within the last decade. Besides her immense natural resources Canada has today the two greatest railway systems of the world, an unrivalled network of grain elevators, important hydro-electric plants which supply energy to numerous industries, the greatest fresh-water canal of the world (Welland Canal), etc. Canada occupies, by her foreign trade, the fifth place in the concert of nations; and her institutions of higher learning, as the Universities of McGill and Toronto, enjoy a reserved world-wide renown.

Culture, Old and New

"One of the topics which cannot pass unobserved by the visitor is the good taste with which the Canadian has harmonized the culture and the traditions of the old world with the renovating American spirit. In Architecture, technology, customs, fashions and in all aspects of life, the influence of young aggressiveness is noticed. Yet not for that does the Canadian cease to be British to the very marrow of his bones. The fundamental virtues of the race are there intact; his devotion to tradition, his lofty conception of duty and honour, his allegiance to the hierarchies, his candid mysticism, his tenacity, his punctilious honesty, his devotion to the Crown. The traveller feels moved and awed as he surveys, in the universities the banks, the public edifices and monuments, the memorial tablets with the roll of Canadians, fallen in the late war, for their loyalty to the King or when, at the close of the performance observed at eleven o'clock, in memory of the war dead.

It has been announced that the annual Armistice Dance will be held this Saturday night in the Mess Hall, and it is expected, due to the usual popularity of this function, that the attendance will be as large as desired.

A Proposal

THE managing board of the Daily has decided to take steps to make the paper more a medium of student opinion, to attempt to raise its literary standard, and to end once and for all the old score that the Daily is only a 'noticeboard' for the various clubs which hold forth on the campus.

With this view in mind monthly prizes will be offered for the best contributions to the Daily columns during the next three months. Three prizes will be awarded monthly. One to the Daily reporter who in the opinion of the managing board turns in the best reporting performance, the award to be based on accuracy, news value, and literary ability. Another will be awarded to the student contributor who submits the best article, poem, or short story to the Daily 'Feature' columns. The third will be awarded for the best letter submitted to the correspondence columns.

The tendency in the past has been to regard the Daily as 'just another college venture.' Indeed, one wit had the temerity to label the students efforts in this direction as 'mimic Journalism.' And probably with a ring of truth. But in spite of this scathing criticism the Daily succeeds, in filling an essential need in the everyday life of the University.

Our purpose in offering these inducements to contributors is to interest the students in the future good standing of the Daily. Too often has the whole burden of issuing the Daily fallen on the shoulders of a few students. The man who shrugs his shoulders and smiles meaninglessly when he reads these words should be the first to utter a loud-mouthed protest if steps were taken to end the Daily's operations. Probably even some of the faculty might find occasion for regret at its passing, had such an alternative to be considered.

It is to avert any such possibility that the present managing board is trying to arouse more active interest in the improvement of the Daily. If the present move is a success it will be adopted as a monthly policy. Surely the students will cooperate to the extent of submitting articles, stories, or poems which they feel deserve publication. The fact need not be stressed that submitted articles will not run the gauntlet of exposure if unpublished. Only the managing board of the paper, and the feature editor will have any access to these articles.

Providing arrangements can be made to this end the three best contributions to this contest will be also published in 'Old McGill' 1935. However this is provisional on the final agreement of the editors of the Annual at the close of the Daily contest.

There are no strings to this offer. The best letter to the correspondence column this month may be an unfavorable criticism of the whole scheme as we at present see it. We hope, however, that this will not be the case.

Students And War

OURS is truly an age of discontent, disillusionment and upheaval. Riddled by an unprecedented economic crisis which bids fair to overthrow our existing society, and which at present shows very little sign of abatement, the world is passing through the gravest period in its history. With economic chaos has come political instability, and the gruesome spectre of war. A general fear complex grips the world, as the two forces of depression and militarism run rampant.

Especially in the past year have the war clouds loomed menacingly, and disarmament conferences have been able to do nothing to stem this ever-present threat of war. The misery, the havoc and the disasters wrought by the last war seemed to have been largely forgotten. The League of Nations, the innumerable Peace Pacts, the Hague Court, disarmament conferences, and other endeavours to prevent war have all been proved inadequate. International conventions of peace and good will are in most quarters regarded merely as scraps of paper.

The general arguments of those favouring heavy armaments and those who do not endeavour to promote the cause of peace are very unconvincing. The usual cry is that a war is the only means of upholding a nation's "honour" and "prestige" (which A. A. Milne in his recent book "Peace With Honour" shows to be nothing else than a nation's reputation as a user of force); moreover a nation must be defensively protected against the possible attacks of its aggressive neighbours. England and France, it is claimed, cannot dare to disarm, for they must protect themselves against militaristic neighbours. We wonder how far the Boer War was for defensive purposes. Shall England, for instance, stand by and let her supremacy of the seas and her reputation as a defender of peace, justice and probity be challenged? Ah no! Shall the British lion be laid open to attack from enemies? Ah no! Shall France disarm with such a neighbour as Germany? Ah no! Such an attitude obviously cannot make for peace. Britain may talk of the necessities of peace, but meanwhile she is strengthening her war forces at the same time.

It is very unfortunate that the world today is ruled by a war convention. Our children have been brought up to hear of the glory of war and the glory of dying for one's country. There is no glory in war. There never has been. The average man today of course does not want war. He has suffered enough already from it. The only ones who really profit from it are the armament makers, who do all in their power to stimulate it. It is not germane to our purpose to describe the real positive measures that can be taken to prevent war (and there are such measures), but it is quite sufficient to note that, amid such a general attitude towards war that obtains today, and amid such lethargic and half-hearted efforts to assure world peace, nothing can be actually accomplished.

We as Canadians are bound to be ultimately affected by any war in which Britain is involved. According to the doctrines of international law, Canada, being an integral part of the British Empire (even though the Statute of Westminster did much to improve our international status), would be involved in a position of "passive belligerency" in the event that Britain declared war. Thus even though we might not wish to enter the war, we may be forced to do it, for our position would admit of foreign attacks on our soil, and attacks on our citizens and their property abroad.

Naturally students can do much to agitate for real peace measures. Recent reports indicate that an "Anti-War League" is going to be established at McGill. This is undoubtedly a step in the right direction. By bringing pressure to bear on those responsible for the welfare of our country, student movements such as this can do much to promote the cause of peace. It is the politicians who are directly responsible for the declaration of war, and these men must be brought to see that their country is definitely against it, and will not take part in it.

THE SCRAP-BOOK

by Von Dubno

Voltaire and Casanova were once discussing the famous Swiss scientist, Albrecht Haller. Voltaire could not have been more enthusiastic in his praises:

"He is a great man," Voltaire exclaimed, "a great poet, a great naturalist, a great philosopher—almost a universal genius, in fact."

"What you say is the more remarkable," said Casanova, "because M. Haller does not hold the same opinion of you."

"Perhaps we are both mistaken," Voltaire replied.

PHILOSOPHERS

A mother tells her infant that two and two make four; the child remembers the proposition, and is able to count four to all the purposes of life, till the course of his education brings him among philosophers, who frighten him from his former knowledge, by telling him that four is a certain aggregate of units; that all numbers are only the repetition of a unit, which, though not a number itself, is the parent root, or original of all number; FOUR is the denomination assigned to a certain number of such repetitions. The only danger is, lest, when he first hears those dreadful sounds, the pupil should run away. If he has but the courage to stay till the conclusion, he will find out, when speculation has done its worst, two and two still make four.

—Samuel Johnson.

"When I meet a man whose name I cannot remember," Disraeli said, "I give myself two minutes; then, if it is a hopeless case, I always say, 'And how is the old complaint?'"

In 1657 Guy Patin (Docteur Regent en la Faculté de Médecine à Paris) wrote: "As to our publishers—I can hope for nothing from them. They print nothing at their own expense but 'novela utrique' (sex novels)."

EPILOGUE

With heart at rest I climbed the citadel's
 Steep height, and saw the city as from a tower,
 Hospital, brothel, prison, and such hells,
 Where evil comes up sooty like a flower,

Thou knowest, O Satan, patron of my pain,
 Not for vain tears I went up at that hour.
 Whether thou sleep, with heavy vapours full,
 Sudden with day, or, new appareled, stand
 In gold-laced vells of evening beautiful.
 I love thee, infamous city.

—from the French by Charles Beaudelaire.

For the unseen all this may not be felt as for the seen; and this the Souls feel for it, every Soul in some degree, but those the more deeply that are the more truly apt to this higher love—just as all take delight in the beauty of the body but all are not stung as sharply, and those only that feel the keener wound are known as Lovers.

—Plotinus.

LISTENIN'-IN BY ELENPY

Ramsay MacDonald

WE ARE PRIVILEGED to announce to our readers that tomorrow, Nov. 8th, at 4.10 p.m., the Prime Minister of Great Britain, the Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, will be heard by Canadian and American listeners. The occasion for the broadcast is the Lord Mayor's banquet in London. The speech will be of great political importance, and should prove interesting to everyone. It will be relayed by the networks of the Columbia Broadcasting System and the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission.

Why Duplicate Stations?

IT IS NOT our policy nor our purpose to dictate the arranging of programs and their distribution, especially when they are sponsored by private enterprise. We should, nevertheless, like to comment on the fact that a radio account of the Ottawa-Argonauts game was relayed on Saturday by two local stations. It is a generally accepted fact that one local station is sufficient to reach that part of a community which is interested in the particular broadcast. We therefore wonder what induced the program department of the Imperial Tobacco Company to run the same broadcast on two Montreal stations, in the face of two other very interesting Canadian games, which were played simultaneously. We are certain that a radio account of any one of the other two games would have been welcomed by a large part of the population of Montreal. Why then . . . ?

Peace Program

ON ARMISTICE DAY, Sunday, Nov. 11th, at 4.00 p.m., a great international radio program in the cause of world peace will be heard. This ambitious undertaking is arranged by the Columbia Broadcasting System, and is given under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. The program will be heard in the principal countries of the world. In Canada the broadcast will be carried by the networks of the Canadian Radio Commission, on a transcontinental hook-up. Leading statesmen of the world will participate in the program. Prime Minister R. B. Bennett will speak from Ottawa. Sir John Simon, of Great Britain, will be heard from London. Dr. Edouard Benes, of Czecho-Slovakia, will be heard from Prague, and ex-Premier Venizelos of Greece, will speak from Athens.

Heifetz Broadcast!

LOVERS of the violin, as it should be played by a maestro, will be delighted to learn that on Sunday, Nov. 11th, at 8.00 p.m., they will get a chance to hear the great Jascha Heifetz. Mr. Heifetz will be the guest soloist on the General Motors Symphony Concert on an NBC-WJZ network. He will be heard in conjunction with Fritz Reiner, of the Philadelphia Orchestra, who will act as guest conductor.

Mr. Heifetz, who has begun his career as a child prodigy, is one of the few living masters of the violin. During the past few years he has made extensive concert tours of Europe and South America. He has also appeared as guest star on a number of radio programs. Mr. Reiner is also a very distinguished musician, having conducted in almost every large city in the world. He is now working with Leopold Stokowski in the capacity of associate director of the famous Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

Wanna Buy A Duck?

(Editor's Note:—This is the authentic autobiography of Goo-Goo, Joe Penner's duck. We have received it from Goo-Goo himself with a complaint that he was being cheated out of the credit that is his due. We therefore print it in its entirety.)

DOUBTLESS you have been called an egg many times. Anything from hard-boiled to just plain egg. But you've never been one, I have. And it's nothing to write home about.

Little did I dream, when I was still an egg, that some day I would be famous and broadcasting over NBC networks, but here I am. The first thing I remember is poking my head through a lot of shell on the Rutherford J. Doakes farm not far from Ossawamie. I was just a little duckling, and not so ugly at that. In fact, I was just ducky.

At first my big ambition in life was to be the centre of interest at a duck dinner. We ducks used to read the funny papers, and when we saw Mr.

Mr. Segar's Wimpy saying, "Come up for a duck dinner, you bring the ducks," we just used to duck our heads in shame and envy that we weren't chosen. But that was all before I discovered I had histrionic abilities.

It came about in this wise. Little Oscar, Mr. Doakes's son, heard Joe Penner on the radio with Rudy Vallee two years ago. And one day Joe made a personal appearance in the town hall at Ossawamie. To show his appreciation, Oscar decided to make Joe a present of a live duck. Oscar invaded our duck pen, and we all ran frantically around, but he caught me. Little did I know what was in store. He presented me to Mr. Penner in person.

"Good grief!" said Mr. Penner, "Another duck!"

So-o-o-o-o-o (as Ed. Wynn would say) I was placed in a large pen with numerous other ducks, all personal presentations to Mr. Penner. Well, Mr. Penner decided to give us away. But I like Mr. Penner, especially his chortles. I guess any duck would. It's lucky for Mr. Penner that I was struck with radio and the theatre, I preened my feathers, arched my back and struck poses. This, of course, attracted Mr. Penner's attention, or perhaps it was the way I spread my webbed feet. Anyway, he decided to keep me. And believe me, I made him what he is today. Others may tell you that Joe is a natural comedian, but pardon me while I chuckle down my feather pit. He owes it all to me. Just let him try to duck me.

I went to Hollywood with Joe Penner when he made a picture, but this movie stuff got me down. I'm really a radio star, although a pretty fowl on the silver screen. You can bet that I was glad when October rolled around. Then I got Joe started East. As the governor would say, it was a long time between broadcasts. Especially since I hadn't seen Harriet Hilliard since July. Harriet is a darn sight prettier than any of these movie babes. Ozzie Nelson promised to take me over to see a football game this fall. Ozzie used to "die for dear ol' Rutgers" on the gridiron a few years back, and now he's one of the swiftest hand leaders totting a baton.

So don't you believe it when Joe says maybe he won't use his duck on the Baker's Broadcasts. There's nothing to it. Everybody knows that I'm the guy that made Joe Penner!

League Against War And Fascism

ED. NOTE: (We are printing here part of the proposed manifesto of the McGill League Against War and Fascism. An organization meeting of this league will be held next Monday to adopt the Manifesto.)

The time has come when students must leave their academic shells. The student is a citizen of his country, and may in time take a leading part in his country's affairs. He cannot remain indifferent to everyday events while he is at college. Students are increasingly concerned themselves with the problems of the day, which now no longer appear remote and unconnected with student life.

This is especially true of the menace of war and fascism. Throughout the world, and at last in Canada and the United States, leagues are springing up on every campus with the object of combatting the immediate danger of fascism and war. The purpose of our league is to enroll every student at McGill in this movement, and to encourage him to play his part in this world-wide struggle.

All McGill students must realize the immediacy of the threat of war with

No Let Up As Red Rugbyists Prepare For Varsity Game

MacArthur, Intermediate Star, Joins Seniors Replacing Gilbert

GROOMING PUNTERS

ALTHOUGH out of the running for the intercollegiate championship, the Big Red Rugby team are not letting up to any noticeable extent in their practices this week. Last night the boys ran through a physical drill, followed by some kicking practice and winding up with the usual signals. The team ran through their drills and officials were enthusiastic about the coming match.

The Toronto-McGill match has long been the feature of the intercollegiate schedule although its interest this year is somewhat dimmed by the fact that the former team with a play-off berth clinched, may not be willing to risk playing themselves into the dirt for an empty victory while the latter team is already out of the running. However it is more than likely that ancient rivalries will flare forth as regardless of the circumstances, neither team is accustomed to easily concede a victory to the other.

New Player

A new player will be seen in senior ranks Saturday as Cam MacArthur replaces Gilbert on the half-line. The latter's broken finger has proved more troublesome than was at first expected and he has accordingly dropped out. MacArthur has been performing in stellar fashion on the intermediate half-line during the fall and should make his presence felt against the Blues and Whites.

The remainder of the team is intact, none of the injuries suffered at Kingston having proved to be of a serious nature. Smith is probably not in the very best of shape but he will be out Saturday and will probably play inasmuch as this will be the last game of the season.

Both Smith and Reid will be holding some first class punts yesterday afternoon and there is every possibility that the vaunted blaster will find his lefty kicks matched by some McGill hoover. Richert, of course, will probably handle the main kicking office but he will be relieved by the other two.

Harriers Prepared For Intercollegiate

Ray Stote Leads McGill Forces Into Kingston

TO ENTRAIN FRIDAY

The plans for the Harrier Team have now been completed. The team will leave on Friday at three o'clock for Kingston where they will defend the championship which they have held for the past two years.

The personnel of the team will be composed of five men. Ray Stote acting captain and manager of the team who ran in 1932, will be in charge of this year's team. Two of last year's squad who are tried performers and can be counted on to turn in a good performance are Cam and Crowley. Terry Todd, champion intermediate 3-miler, will accompany the team in its jaunt to Kingston as will Ben Schetter.

The race has been scheduled to start at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning. The greater part of the race, which is five and a half miles long, will be run over dirt roads. The boys had one of their final work-outs before they leave yesterday afternoon. Every member of the team is in fine shape and expects to retain the title.

Plumbers, Theologs Play Soccer Today

This afternoon on the Upper Stadium, the interfaculty Soccer Game between Engineering and Theology will be played. Each side has defeated Arts-Commerce and the game today is to decide who will meet Macdonald in the final. It is to be hoped that the game will get under way no later than three forty-five p.m. so as to ensure at least one hour's play.

Theology team will be represented by the following: Hamilton, Kelloway, (Capt.) Fogga, Spencer, Bugden, Davis, Northcott, Buchanan, Rudd, Machin and Lynn. Reserves: Lambert and Bergeron.

Coeds Hold Classes In Art Of Fencing

For the first time in two years, a fencing class has been organized in the Gym at R.V.C., under the capable supervision of Miss Wayne. This is comparatively new in the realms of sport at R.V.C. Equipped with foils, masks, and gloves, the co-eds are thoroughly enjoying this graceful art. The classes are being enthusiastically received and largely attended by freshette and senior alike.

It has been suggested that the Men's Fencing Club should match their prowess against that of the co-eds, and we expect in this way that fencing will be saved from becoming a lost art.

Murray Secures First Ranking In Provincial Tennis

Laird Watt Ranked Second With Leslie Sixth

Bob Murray, McGill's gift to tennis, was signally honored last evening by the Province of Quebec Lawn Tennis Association, when the latter body awarded him first ranking in the Province. Ahead of Marcel Rainville, Canadian Davis Cup player and ranked equally with Longtin, was Laird Watt of the McGill class of Commerce '34. Charles Leslie, former member of the McGill Tennis Team, was placed sixth in the ratings.

Murray's principal claim to tennis recognition is the fact that he competed successfully in the Provincial Open Tennis Championship and the Intercollegiate Meet. Besides winning these two championships Bob Murray acquitted himself especially well against a strong field in the majority of the leading tennis tournaments, notably the Dominion and Ontario title Tourneys.

Future Assured
Murray, who is a senior this year, supplanted the veteran Rainville in the number 1 position in the provincial rankings. Securing this honor at the age of 20 augurs well for Murray's future. On the basis of past play Bob's future in the tennis world seems assured.

Sports Correspondence

We have received the following letter and also a telephonic communication regarding the Column "Slants in Sports" which appeared in the Daily yesterday. We wish to have it understood that the signed columns in the Sports Department do not represent the editorial opinion of the Daily but rather that of the individual writers. In this particular case the article was written in a light vein and we do not feel that the strong protests which we have received are altogether warranted. Mr. A. G. will not be "brought to task" but we feel sure that his own sense of propriety will prevent him, in future, from repeating the offence.

Sports Editor.

Sport Editor,
The McGill Daily,
Montreal.

On behalf of a group of medical students, citizens of the United States, who have contributed and are contributing so much for McGill prestige in athletics and towards international amity—we feel collectively and individually that the writer of the ill-named "Slants in Sports," who signs himself "A.G.," should be severely brought to task, particularly as the present offence is by no means his original transgression against accepted dictates of student fellowship.

In the Daily, issue of November 7th, we note these lines: "From the land of the spree and the home of the rave comes yet another manifestation of the Spirit of '76." As partners in the publication of the McGill Daily through a compulsory subscription basis, as students of the University, as co-operators working with all progressive spirits towards a greater common destiny, we PROTEST MOST VEEHE-

Slants On Sports

A. D. S.

THE comeback registered by the Queen's Tricolour in recent weeks seems to give confirmation to the idea that not necessarily are those athletes who have made a name for themselves the best material for a team. Recently Queen's suffered what at the time appeared an irreparable loss in the disqualification of several of its outstanding stars, players like Hamlin, whose names seemed synonymous with football prowess.

That such was not the case was conclusively proven by the type of play which characterized the Queen's team since that time. We do not mean to infer that newcomers are the better players in many cases, though indications seem to point that way in this case. It may be that the team was inspired with a new psychology—the spirit of winning in spite of great handicaps. They have done just that and credit is due them for it.

The outlook for the McGill hockey team several weeks ago appeared, at best, none too bright. Even their most confirmed supporters were somewhat sceptical over their chances in the current hockey season. But such does not seem to be the case. On the basis of their play against the strong Verdun team and again against the Professional Canadiens, they clearly indicated that they will go far in their attempts to clinch the Senior Group pennant. Their play against such strong opposition leaves little to be desired. Though defeated 2-0 in their play against the Canadiens, it must be remembered that the pros displayed their best wares in the first period of the game tending to slow up as the game progressed.

This year's team is composed of many newcomers to big time hockey. They deserve every break from McGill rooters and that demands but one thing from the student body—full-fledged support. With such a spirit prevailing the team that sports the Red this year will be better enabled to follow in the footsteps of last year's great team.

Did You Know?

That Sherk, Western's backfield ace is out for the remainder of the season because of a Charley-horse. . . . That the University of Saskatchewan and the University of Alberta clash Saturday at Edmonton for the Intercollegiate Rugby Championship of Western Canada. . . . Huey Long is endeavoring to secure a game in December at New York City for his unbeaten Louisiana State Football Team. . . . Figures that only Minnesota or Princeton could offer La. State the required opposition. . . . Stanford, Pop Warner's Temple Princeton, Minnesota and Louisiana State seem the pick of this year's American Football brigade. . . .

Before the recent Queen's-Toronto game several Tricolour men were delegated to Toronto for the sole purpose of painting the Varsity goal posts. By an ironical twist of fate it seems that Varsity had delegated several students to the Stadium to preserve the integrity of these very same goal-posts. The Queen's men were apprehended and subjected to the very humiliating treatment of having the letter T shaved onto their cranial. Reminds us of the Freshmen initiation ceremonies at Queen's. We also believe that another interesting pastime of the Tricolour students is to obtain an R.M.C. pull-box which is handy for an ash tray.

MENTLY against the inclusion of such unjustified and unjustifiable publicity. The excuse cannot be that it comes from an uneducated, ungentlemanly partisan writer; rather does it betoken a mentality which has never entered the melting-pot of common courtesy, racial good-fellowship and elemental journalistic ethics.

It is high time such uncalled-for and baseless narrowism was relegated to the journalistic sidelines, never again to debase a student publication, such as the Daily has by tradition and purposeful existence stood for in the realm of undergraduate life.

Very sincerely yours,

Red Polo Teams Encounter Strong Opposition Tonite

Seniors Face Columbus While Juniors Play M.A.A.A.

McGILL mermen will be engaged tonight in the second double-header of the week. The seniors meet the powerful Columbus aggregation in the nightcap while in the opener the juniors will try to consolidate their position in the standing by defeating M.A.A.A. Blues, the Peel St. club's second team. Both games will take place at the K. of C. Mountain St. tank with the first game scheduled for 8.30 p.m.

In a previous game the Red seniors battled their heavier rivals to a 3-3 deadlock. Added practice and experience have considerably strengthened the Red bulwarks and they should have little difficulty in bottling up the Columbus scoring threats which forced them to a tie in the season's opener. The usual line-up will start the game and stellar performances against Y.M.H.A. earlier in the week point towards some more definite decision than a tie.

First Encounter

This will be the first encounter for the two junior teams but the depositors have it that even the M.A.A.A. first string squad is considerably weaker than the collegians. The Red juniors are in second place in the league standing, having dropped only one contest. Tonight's game will give them ample opportunity to strengthen their position close behind the league-leading Columbus Blues.

Law Lions Humble Engineers 8-6 In Close Fought Game

Sheppard Scores Major For Plumbers in First Quarter

FEATURED AERIALS

YESTERDAY afternoon the Lower Campus was again the scene of another inspired football classic when the Law Lions succeeded in barely eking out a victory over the Engineering Tigers by the slim margin of an 8 to 6 win.

The scoring opened early in the first quarter when Jack Sheppard nimbly scampered over the Law goal line to put the Franching Plumbers five points in the lead after a sustained drive of fifty yards. The Lawyers then unleashed a strong attack which finally netted them one point before the half-way mark was reached.

Perfected Aerials

At the beginning of the second half the Engineers, leading by a 5 to 1 score, found themselves subjected to a powerful aerial attack from the Crown Prosecutors. This attack, under Bill Sellar's superb twirling arm, resulted in a major score which was converted. Thus the Attorneys took the upper hand for the first time.

The outstanding feature of the game was the strong defence put up by the Engineers when the Lawyers were threatening the Engineering stone wall on the Plumbers' one yard line. Twice the Law Boys tried to crash over, but the hard tackling of Goodfellow and Carter forced the Legal Men to be contented with one point.

The scoring closed after the Law Lions were rouged for another single counter. For the Lawyers, Bill Sellar, even without his donkey, was the galloping ghost of former years. Sewell Hubbard turned in a strong game for the Plumbers but could not succeed in changing the score before the final whistle. Charlie Wayland and Con to fascism because fascism is attempting to lead them back to the position of inferiority from which they have been steadily fighting their way. "In the education of women emphasis must be laid primarily on physical development. Only afterwards must emphasis be given to spiritual values, and lastly to mental development. Motherhood is undeniably the aim of feminine education"—Hitler. "Woman, her place is in the home, her duty is the recreation of the tired warrior"—Geering.

To all these groups, cultural, social, professional and to all these individuals, fascism and war stand for decay, retrogression and death. They are determined to fight them forcefully and effectively. In particular the league will expose the chaos and reaction which fascism has brought to student activity and intellectual life in such countries as Italy, Austria and Germany. Realizing the imminence of the threat of the anti-social forces they have agreed to drop all controversy on specific points of doctrine and to unite in the league on this one burning issue on which they are all agreed. It is not and will not be in any sense a sectarian movement.

The Menace of War

Of the imminent danger of war there can be no doubt. The last war was fought "to make the world safe for democracy." It has resulted in the butchering of all democratic rights in many countries and their slow strangulation in others. It was fought "to make a land fit for heroes to live in." It has resulted in universal poverty, misery and despair. It was to be a war "to end war." Today the threat of war is as immediate as in 1914. Modern war is useless, stupid and brutal; its slogans, for which ten million men gave their lives, are, twenty years later, a mockery and bitterness in the hearts of men.

That the world is again rushing into war there can be no doubt. We have the same intense economic rivalries between great powers today that we had in 1914, unrestricted trade and financial war that must inevitably lead to real war, that same feverish manufacture of armaments. The Disarmament Conference has broken down and has turned, openly and cynically, into a Rearmament Conference. The International armament rings are waxing fat upon the super-profits reaped from selling instruments for the destruction of the human race. The great powers are pouring more and still more millions into their armies, navies and air forces at the expense of the essential social services—education, public health, relief. The "drift to war" has turned into a brute-like frenzied "race to war."

That an attempt will be made to involve our country in the intended world holocaust seems probable in view of the recent talks in London on "Imperial Defence." Today as in 1914, every government in the world is telling its people that these huge armaments are only for defence. We must not be deceived by this. We must realize our danger and be determined that our country will not be dragged into another useless carnage. We in Canada have nothing to gain by war and everything to lose. Our government must be made to realize that forcibly, clearly and finally. The students of McGill must join all other sections of the population in demanding that all war preparations be moderated.

The Menace of Fascism

The threat of fascism is equally real though less obvious. Fascism is, to a great extent, a political device for the facilitation of war preparation. The war-mongering character of fascism is open and undisguised. "War alone" writes Mussolini in his exposition of the fascist creed, "war alone brings up will be held at 5 p.m. on Friday, November 9, in the Macdonald Physics Laboratory.

SPEAKER: Dr. F. R. Terroux.

to its highest tension all human energy and puts the stamp of nobility upon the peoples who have the courage to meet it." This is typical of the utterances of the leaders of fascist parties of all countries. The object of this kind of war propaganda—always despicably presented in the name of patriotism—is to prepare the vast numbers of the citizens of all lands, including our own, for bodily slaughter and financial ruin in order that huge profits may be reaped by special concentrated interests.

Fascism in Germany has also launched a severe attack on the church. The Nazis have been nearly successful in making the pulpit an instrument of their political propaganda, and the church as a whole subservient to the fascist regime. The fact that thousands of clergymen openly resisted this regimentation of the church shows the extent to which they must have suffered under the fascist rule. No wonder that religious people all over the world are quickly united with all the other sections of the population in fighting fascism as well as war.

Fascism is also a destruction of all culture and liberty. The fascist Hitler has brutally persecuted all professors, teachers and students who would not ascribe to the banalities of Nazi thought and the brutalities of Nazi action. He has publicly burned all books which do not fit in with his narrow sectarian dogmas—a spectacle reminiscent of the Dark Ages. He has reduced by decree the number of students entering universities in Germany from 38,000 to 15,000—women students from 7,000 to 1,500. He has flung into exile dozens of the finest minds of the modern world including Einstein, Thomas Mann and Rhinehart. Italy has been spiritually and culturally dead since the advent of fascism in 1922. A Royal Decree of August 28, 1931 compelled all university professors in Italy to sign an oath of allegiance to Mussolini's regime. Eleven professors who refused to take the oath were immediately dismissed by the Fascist Government, while many others resigned before their dismissal could be announced. Popular books such as "All Quiet on the Western Front," circulated in all countries of the world when it appeared, are permanently banned in Italy, while the works of well-known writers, such as Tolstol and Jack London, are not allowed to be published or circulated. The press of both countries is ruthlessly gagged. Freedom of expression and assembly, civil and political rights, are entirely stifled.

The fight against fascism and the fight against war is the fight of all intelligent people in every country. World famous writers and scientists such as Romain Rolland, Andre Gide, Henri Barbusse, Theodore Dreiser and others, have actively entered the struggle. It is a fight on the world front. In that fight the McGill League Against War and Fascism can take its part, and, for our country, it will be a part of no mean consequence.

We are students of McGill University and, rightly or wrongly, the people of Canada look up to the university men and women, especially the men and women of McGill, and are greatly influenced by our opinions. We must see that we do not fail in our duty to give a lead on issues so vital as these.

To the Editor,

Dear Sir:

It would be interesting to know what good can come of an address such as was reported given by Mrs. Sheehy Skeffington at the Forum last Sunday evening.

When in Ireland during the Summer of 1932, I was asked more than once, by people of varying stations in life, what good, learning Irish in the schools will be eventually; one country woman bemoaned the fact that they were unable to help their children with their lessons, and the time taken to teach the language could well be spent on some other language that would be of use to them when they will—as they must—go out in the world and probably to other countries.

I have not a drop of Irish blood, but the pitiable tragedy of Ireland touched me deeply when I visited the country for a month. To stand up in a House of God in a British Country and make offensive remarks against our Rulers is, to my mind, typical of the teachings of that Hymn of Hate constantly sung by a Portuguese Moron who, by some strange power understood only by the Irish themselves, has for the tragic moment, captured the imaginations of a small minority. There are many half truths in Mrs. Skeffington's "address"—and you know the danger of half truths.

I assume she is not above taking British money to talk against Britain? Free speech may be all right, but if nothing else, her remarks lack good taste, and though I'm thankful to say I did not hear her, if she has been correctly quoted, she owes the right thinking people of Montreal an apology for making offensive remarks to a British public against British rule. There must have been many in her audience who, like myself, are proud to be,

BRITISH.

1. All biographies must be in the hands of the Biography-Editor not later than Nov. 24th.
2. Such biographies are to be typewritten or printed in block letters, signed and handed personally to the Class Representative by the subject of the biography.
3. Biographies, including the introductory quotation, must not exceed 60 words in length. Please do not omit the quotation.
4. The biographer should get the approval of the subject of the biography before he draws up his final draft on this form (see back of this card).
5. The signature of the subject of the biography (at foot of card) indicates that he approves of the biography as written.
6. The Editor is personally responsible for the material in this book, and anything of a flagrantly libellous character, etc., is subject to his veto.
7. Please note the form and style of typical biography in the illustration below. This biography is only intended to be used as a guide, and need not be followed literally. Date of birth, birthplace, preparatory schools, positions held at McGill, teams played on, etc., should all be included. Favorite expressions are desirable, but they are not essential, and anything suitable will suffice to complete the biography. Originality is urged.
